

From the desk of

Arizona Supreme Court Chief Justice Scott Bales

During the one and one-half years I have served as Chief Justice, I have been impressed by the many contributions made by volunteers like you who work with the Arizona courts. Many have told me how rewarding they find their efforts to help advance justice in Arizona. I and my colleagues greatly appreciate your dedication and hard work.

Existing volunteers like you are also our greatest source for identifying new volunteers. We have a pressing need for volunteers to serve on Foster Care Review Boards or as Court Appointed Special Advocates in communities throughout the State. We also have volunteer opportunities on other boards, committees or commissions.

Information about volunteer opportunities is available on the Arizona Courts website: www.azcourts.gov. The homepage has a rotating slide show where you can click the one saying "We is more powerful than me...volunteer, get involved." Or simply go to <http://www.azcourts.gov/volunteer>. Because "we" truly is more powerful than "me," I hope you will share these links and information with others who might be interested in volunteering to work with the Arizona courts.

Our communities are stronger when we partner together and work to ensure impartial justice for all. Thank you again for your efforts toward this vital goal.

With appreciation,

Scott Bales
Chief Justice
