ADULT PROBATION POPULATION

During FY 2017, the average<sup>1</sup> number of people on probation was 85,769, an increase of 2,222 from FY 2016. For purposes of funding and caseload ratios of 65:1 that are reported to the Joint Legislative Budget Committee, the AOC categorizes a subset of those on probation as “direct supervision” cases. During FY 2017, the average number of direct supervision cases was 43,399, an increase of 1,434 from FY 2016. Probationers who are not included in the direct supervision count include individuals categorized as being on administrative supervision or indirect supervision, incarcerated (jail or prison), supervised by another state, absconders, deported, prison with a probation tail, unsupervised, jail flat time, federal custody, and over 90-day warrants.

For purposes of this report, a supervised probationer is defined as a probationer who is directly supervised by an adult probation officer. Table 1 shows the average number of people on probation by county in FY 2017 and the average number of people on supervised probation (direct supervision includes standard and intensive probation).

PROBATION REVOCATIONS

If a probationer is found in violation of the condition(s) of probation, the probation grant can be revoked. In Arizona, there are three types of revocation classification: revoked with no incarceration; revoked to jail; and revoked to the Arizona Department of Corrections (ADOC). By the end of FY 2017 there were a total of 5,333 dispositions that resulted in probation grants being revoked, a decrease of 234 from FY 2016. Table 2 shows the number of dispositions in each county that resulted in a revocation during FY 2017. Statewide, the number and type of dispositions that resulted in revocations were:

- 4,662 dispositions resulted in a revocation to the Department of Corrections (see Appendix A for a detailed breakdown of the costs for private bed placements for the Department of Corrections);
- 647 dispositions resulted in a revocation to jail; and
- 24 dispositions resulted in a revocation with no incarceration.

NEW FELONY CONVICTIONS

The Administrative Office of the Courts reports on new felony convictions as the established baseline (A.R.S. §12-270 (A)(2) is “The percentage of people on supervised probation from each county who are convicted of a new felony offense compared to the percentage of probationers who would have been convicted of a new felony offense at the baseline probation conviction rate.”

Year to Year Overall Changes in New Felony Convictions

Over the past nine years Arizona has experienced a decline in the number of new felony convictions when compared to FY 2008 baseline. During FY 2017, 2,623 people on probation had a new felony conviction; this was an increase of 5.1% from FY 2016 to FY 2017. Tables 9 shows the number and percent of probationers who had a new felony conviction during the last three fiscal years. Figure 9 shows the trend in the number of new felony convictions on a statewide level over the past nine years.
