ON [REDACTED] MY GRANDDAUGHTER, [REDACTED] had to appear before Judge [REDACTED] on her child support issues. She was in arrears so she asked me to accompany her so I could relay the particulars, if she were incarcerated, to her mother. After a discussion over the amount discrepancy the judge asked her why she had been fired from her job. At the [REDACTED] she explained that her ex-fiance had beaten her up & she could not work. The judge asked if she was hospitalized, she said no, he then told her she could have worked then, she said, she had two black eyes, & they would not let her work so she was fired. The judge said "I do not feel sorry for women who get beat up by their boyfriends because they use your judgement calls. This is a direct case of prejudiciality against women. This man makes judgements for or against women everyday. With his attitude how can he be impartial? He sent domestic violence back to the dark ages with his comment [REDACTED]
