During a hearing for my sister Judge  totally lost control of himself. He seemed to have a personal problem with the Bail Bondsman and let that be known in a very loud voice. The lack of decorum was appalling. It was as if the defendant were not even in the court room. The Judge was so angry with and busy yelling the the Bailbondperson he refused to listen to anything. He offended myself and family members with callous comments about a tragic death in our family. I was frankly appalled that a superior court judge could not only lose his control but repeat so many times that he could not understand. His own lack of understanding seemed to spur his anger more. All of this over a bond and a court date, things the judge should understand.
This has all since been resolved but my concern continue over this behavior by one entrusted to protect & dispense justice. Temper tantrums and personal vendettas seem to me to be misconduct anywhere especially in a courtroom. His eyes actually bugged out. IT was apparent to everyone in the courtroom. He even accused The family of lying about calls to the court without even checking with his court's clerks. Please call if more information needed.
